7. Disputes

Summary: We strive to resolve issues with our users directly, and most matters are addressed that way. Where a dispute can't be resolved between us, the parties agree to resolve it through individual binding arbitration instead of in court, and waive any right to a class action. You may opt out of arbitration within thirty (30) days of first agreeing to these Terms.

Please read this section carefully, as it governs disputes between you and Replit. This arbitration agreement applies, without limitation, to claims related to your use of the Service, these Terms, or any other aspect of your relationship or interaction with Replit, and such claims must be resolved through binding arbitration instead of court. This arbitration agreement applies to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law. In jurisdictions where mandatory arbitration provisions are prohibited or unenforceable, this section will not apply to the extent prohibited.

What is arbitration?

Arbitration is a form of private dispute resolution in which a neutral arbitrator, rather than a judge or jury, decides the dispute. Arbitration procedures are generally more limited than court proceedings, including with respect to discovery and appellate review. The arbitrator can award the same damages and relief that a court could award under applicable law. The arbitrator's decision is final and binding on both parties.

Can claims be part of a class action or similar proceeding?

NO. YOU AND REPLIT AGREE TO RESOLVE CLAIMS AGAINST EACH OTHER ONLY ON AN INDIVIDUAL BASIS AND NOT AS PART OF A CLASS, REPRESENTATIVE, OR CONSOLIDATED ACTION. UNLESS YOU OPT OUT OF ARBITRATION, YOU AND REPLIT ARE WAIVING THE RIGHT TO PURSUE OR HAVE A DISPUTE RESOLVED AS A PLAINTIFF OR MEMBER IN ANY CLASS, REPRESENTATIVE OR CONSOLIDATED ACTION.

What's the process to start arbitration?

Replit is interested in resolving disputes before they reach arbitration. We believe most concerns can be quickly resolved in a satisfactory manner. If you have a claim against Replit, you agree to send an individual letter to legal@repl.it. The letter must contain (i) a description of the nature and basis of the claim; (ii) the relief you seek; and (iii) your name, mailing address, and email address. If the claim is not resolved within sixty (60) days after notice is received, you or Replit may commence an arbitration proceeding.

What rules apply to arbitration?

If we are unable to resolve the dispute, either of us may commence arbitration with National Arbitration and Mediation ("NAM") under its Comprehensive Dispute Resolution Rules and Procedures, available here. The arbitration will be conducted in writing, remotely (e.g. videoconference), in San Francisco, California, United States, or at a location mutually agreed upon by you and Replit. The arbitration will be conducted by a sole arbitrator. Payment of filing fees, administrative fees, and arbitrator compensation will be governed by the applicable NAM rules. Each party will bear its own attorneys' fees and costs unless the arbitrator awards fees under applicable law.

How do I opt out of arbitration?

To opt out, you must notify Replit within thirty (30) days after first becoming subject to this arbitration agreement. Your notice must include your full name, address, username (if applicable), your email address that you registered with (if applicable), and a clear statement that you want to opt out of this Arbitration Agreement. This opt out notice must be sent to arbitration-opt-out@repl.it. No individual may opt out on behalf of another party.

These Terms are the parties' entire agreement regarding its subject matter and supersede any prior or contemporaneous agreements regarding its subject matter.

e. Severability

Any provision that cannot be modified or reformed in this way will be deemed deleted and the remaining provisions of these Terms will continue in full force and effect.
